Host: In other words, you wanted to enjoy all the benefits of the modern age, only with a lot less fossil fuels.

Mr. Fine: Exactly. As for electricity, my answer was solar energy. It's also the reason I chose New Mexico. The sun shines almost all year round there. Still, ① that was not easy for me to get electricity from sunlight. Solar panels are surprisingly expensive, and I had trouble putting ② them in place. It was worth the effort, though. Now a large part of the electricity ③ used on my farm is provided by my DIY solar system. After going solar, my farm uses only one tenth of the fossil fuel energy used by the average American household.

Host: And regarding transportation, I hear you now drive a very special truck.

Mr. Fine: Yes. I came up with ④ what I consider a brilliant idea—biofuel. I bought a diesel truck and had it converted to run on vegetable oil. Rudolf Diesel, the inventor of diesel engines, actually ⑤ intended for farmers to grow their own fuel. These days, I no longer go to a gas station to get fuel. I pay regular visits to a local Chinese restaurant and collect waste cooking oil. It does not cost money and does not send carbon into air. The only problem is that the truck smells like fried chicken, and driving it makes me terribly hungry!
